

Report on Gardening Activity in the Departmental Garden

Political Science Department, 2nd Semester Students

Introduction

This report outlines the gardening activity conducted by the 2nd semester students of the Political Science Department in the Departmental Garden on 27/02/2026. The initiative aimed to enhance the aesthetic appeal of the campus and foster environmental awareness among students.

Objectives of the Activity

- To promote team spirit and collaboration among students.
- To encourage practical learning about environmental conservation.
- To beautify the Departmental Garden with new plants and landscaping.

Details of the Gardening Activity

On the morning of 27th February 2026, the 2nd semester Political Science students gathered in the Departmental Garden. Under the guidance of faculty members, the students were divided into small groups. Each group was assigned specific tasks, including soil preparation, planting saplings, watering, and cleaning the garden area.

The students planted a variety of flowering plants and shrubs, such as marigold, hibiscus, and bougainvillea, which are well-suited to the local climate. They also cleared the garden pathways and removed weeds, ensuring a neat and organised appearance.

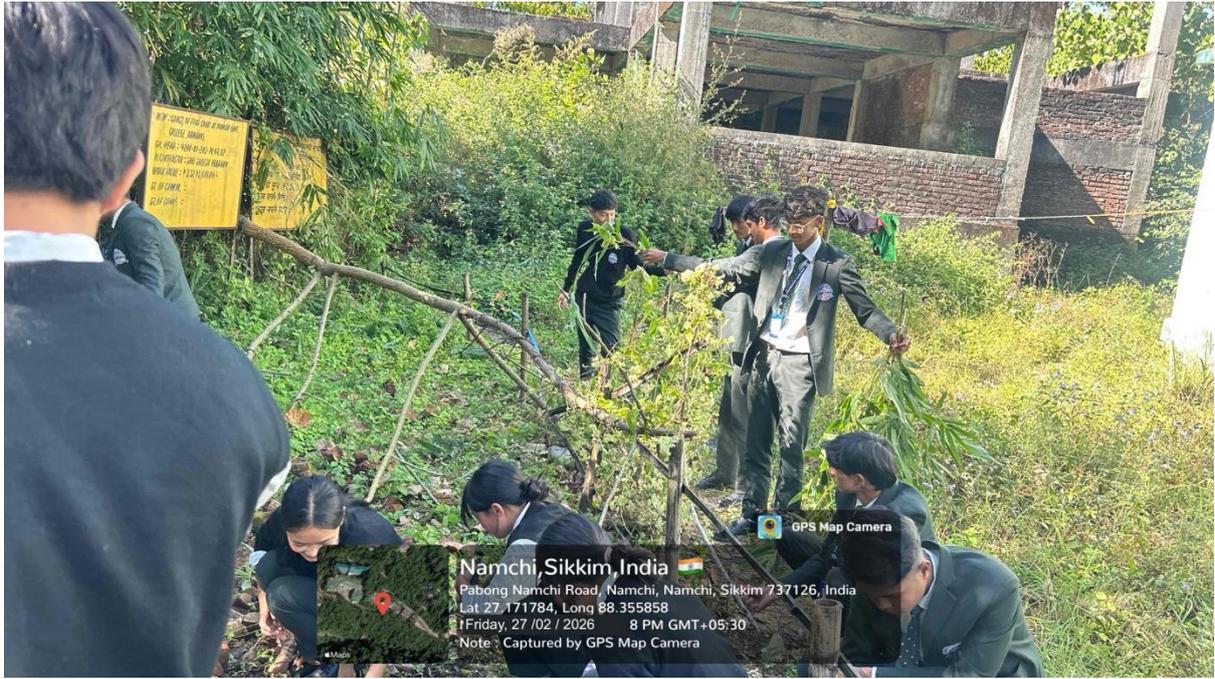

Outcome and Observations

The activity was conducted successfully, with enthusiastic participation from all students. The Departmental Garden now looks vibrant and inviting, providing a pleasant environment for academic and recreational activities. The students reported a sense of accomplishment and expressed interest in organising similar activities in the future.

Conclusion

The gardening activity held on 27/02/2026 served as an effective platform for the Political Science students to learn about environmental management while contributing to the upkeep of the Departmental Garden. Such initiatives are recommended to be continued regularly to instil responsibility and care for nature among students.
