Report on Departmental Gardening Programme on World Environment Day 2026

Date: 05 June 2026

Organized by: Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, SGC- Namchi

Participants: Students of 2nd, 4th, and 6th Semester

Introduction

On the occasion of World Environment Day, the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication organized a Departmental Gardening Programme on 05 June 2026. The programme aimed to promote environmental awareness, encourage sustainable practices, and instil a sense of responsibility among students towards nature and environmental conservation.

Objectives

- To celebrate World Environment Day meaningfully.
- To create awareness about the importance of greenery and environmental protection.
- To encourage students to participate actively in eco-friendly activities.
- To enhance the aesthetic beauty of the department premises through gardening.

Programme Details

The gardening programme witnessed enthusiastic participation from students of the 2nd, 4th, and 6th Semesters. Faculty members of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication guided and motivated the students throughout the activity.

The programme commenced with a brief address highlighting the significance of World Environment Day and the role of individuals in preserving the environment. Students then engaged in various gardening activities such as cleaning the departmental surroundings, preparing flower beds, planting saplings, watering plants, and maintaining the garden area.

The collective effort of the students contributed to creating a cleaner, greener, and more pleasant environment within the department. The activity also provided an opportunity for teamwork, cooperation, and environmental learning.

The gardening programme successfully fostered environmental consciousness among the students. The newly planted saplings and improved garden area enhanced the beauty of the department and reflected the commitment of the students towards environmental sustainability.
